Different activities will apply to different age groups, depending on your schedule and the age of your children. Take advantage of nap time, educational games and apps, and books. Create and communicate your schedulePlanning is key. It is important to schedule your day with set work and personal goals. Look at what you have that is most important not to be interrupted, and aim to schedule the most engaging/reliable activities for your children to be on their own during that time. Set boundariesHave a family meeting and explain how working from home works, and let your kids know that you have certain tasks that you must accomplish without regular interruption. Explain that you will allocate time to check on them and see what they are doing. Encourage them to problem solve and be independent where possible.Reward good behaviourRewarding and encouraging good behaviour is very important. Let your children know that they will be rewarded by, for example, not interrupting you while you .derap-erp .derap-erp evay taht tah a fo aedid yvititca modnar a keip ot meht meht wol ,elpmaxe rof .OG ot ydaran emag yvititca yvititca Pu-kcab yarda eht tulp tulp tn Dna Esiarp Fo Stol Meht Evig ,gniteem Lautriv
